

Indochine® | Each encaustic cement tile is individually handmade using a hydraulic press and variations in color, pattern, and dimension are inherent. Encaustic tiles are suitable for walls and floors. They are commercially rated for slip resistance. They may be used outside where freeze-thaw conditions do not occur. We do not recommend they be submerged in fountains, pools, or shower pans. While sealers help mitigate fading, sun and moisture will fade all cement products, and it is expected. Prior to installation choose tiles from multiple boxes to ensure proper blending of colors. Please leave tiles in their boxes until the time of installation. Do not store encaustic tiles outside. Do not let the boxes get wet as moisture may leave residue stains prior to installation. Preseal tiles before grouting and seal after completion. Every few years the tile should be resealed and rewaxed (waxing for interiors only). If there is heavy foot traffic in a commercial setting, you may elect to strip the wax, clean the tile (see Indochine® information at www.arto.com/technical-info), reseat, and rewax (waxing for interiors only). If maintained properly, your tiles will last a lifetime. The Indochine® cement tile line is made in Vietnam and curated by ARTO.
